Out of Office

Eindhoven

In early April 2014, the ideal flexworking space Out of Office was established in Eindhoven. It is a place that fits the work ethic of the 21st century. At least, supposedly, because over the course of one month, it transformed from a playful workspace with a swing, a cuddly office rabbit and a bed, into a space with a disciplined grid of gray cubicles and strict rules. The flexworkers were unaware of this social-architectural experiment that critically reflects on the hype of new, flexible way of working. From Out of Office, KNOL simply went back to Office, wondering, what really 'works'?
